

Dr. Collin Cornell is serving as the part time Interim Associate Dean of the Stevenson School for Ministry. Collin works with Technical Associate Chris Keeney to keep the technical aspects of the school running smoothly, oversees software and learning platforms, serves as a resource for students and faculty and works in collaboration with Canon Alexis Guszick to keep the website and online materials up to date. Collin earned his Ph.D. in Hebrew Bible/Old Testament from Emory University and taught for three years as a visiting professor of biblical studies in the School of Theology at the University of the South (Sewanee). He is now the coordinator of Sewanee's Center for Religion and Environment.