

Once a user without a Facebook account follows the direct event link, they will receive one of two pages.

The first page may look like this:

If you receive that screen, all you need to do is scroll down to watch to our videos and the user can completely ignore the “Log in” or “Create New Account” message.

Or the user could also receive a page that looks like this:

In that case, just click on the small “Not Now” text link below the green “Create New Account” button, and you’ll still be able to view the videos.
